

The Earth First! group started sitting in trees and standing in front of bulldozers to stop the crazy logging. The Earth First! people believe that animals and trees have a right to live here, too. They thought it was so important to save the giant redwoods that they were willing to risk their lives.